DETAILED ACTION

1. The Request for Reconsideration filed on April 28, 2004 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hart in view of Schafer.

Hart discloses the invention substantially as claimed except for the shape of the drilling blade as claimed. However, Schafer teaches this shape is old and well known in the punching art as seen by the concave punch/drill (4) in Fig. 1. This shape allows for a more progressive cutting/punching/drilling of the material to be worked. Thus, it would have been obvious to the ordinary artisan at the time of the instant invention to provide the device of Hart with the shape of the "drill" as taught and suggested by Schafer for the reasons stated supra.

Regarding claims 6-12, the modified device of Hart discloses the invention substantially as claimed including the inherent ability to cut metal sheets, especially those of relative thickness and material characteristics as that of paper webs. However, if it is argued that the modified device of Hart lacks this ability, then it would have been obvious to the ordinary artisan at the time of the instant invention to provide the modified device of Hart with the ability to "drill" or cut metal sheets, since the Applicant has disclosed that such sheets are relatively thin (note e.g. pp. 1-2), since these sheets would have material characteristics within the bounds of paper webs or other similar materials, and since all this would require is a modification of the factors such as running time, the strength of pull through the device which are all within the skills of the ordinary artisan.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-12 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
